Honors to the Dead
By Associated Press.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—General Veazey, Commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, has issued the following order: "All posts of the Grand Army Republic are ordered to meet the funeral train of General Sherman at the railroad stations, en route from New York to St. Louis, and to salute the remains as they pass by." Hundreds of people were permitted to look on the face of General Sherman to-day. They formed into a long line by half past nine o'clock, and from then on during the day, a constant stream of humanity passed through the House.

RUTHLAND (Vt.), Feb. 18.—Commander Veasey of the Grand Army of the Republic of the United States, to-day issued an order announcing the death of General Sherman, and ordering the prescribed badge of mourning to be worn by the officers when on duty for a period of thirty days from date.

A special from Fort Leavenworth says, in compliance with General Schofield's orders the military stationed here will take part in Sherman's funeral. The old war horse "Comanche," 28 years of age, will also be taken to St. Louis and follow the hearse in the funeral procession bearing the General's accoutrements.

Distress in Ireland.
By Cable and Associated Press.]

DUBLIN, Feb. 18.—Twenty-five thousand dollars, the first installment of the liberal grant to the McCarthyites, has been deposited in checks signed by Morley and McCarthy.

Michael Davitt, who has been visiting the west coast of Ireland, reports that the inhabitants of that coast are badly in need of seed. Davitt pronounces road repairing work by the government being done at Atachill as a mere burlesque, and adds that children are suffering from lack of milk.

More Failures.
By Associated Press.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The American Loan and Trust Company closed its doors to-day. The immediate cause of the failure was the demand for a large amount of money made by the Savings Bank of this city which the trust company cound not meet. The Bank Examiner states that he gave no order to close the doors and the general feeling seems to be that the company will pay depositors in full and have a balance left.

Three savings banks, one in Syracuse, one in Rochester and another outside bank demanded payments of deposits amounting to $300,000. The institution could not pay and at the request of one of the savings banks, the Superintendent took possession. Later he sent for the Bank Examiner, Cahill, who is now in charge. No statement can be had yet.

BOSTON, Feb. 18.—The Union Investment Company of Kansas City has made an assignment for the benefit of its creditors, to its President, E. O. Parker.

The Brazilian Reciprocity.
By Cable and Associated Press.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Mendonca, the Brizilian Minister, was seen in regard to a cablegram from Bahia that the reciprocity arrangement with the United State was not yet ratified and was not likely to be. The Minister had no information about the situation at Bahia and did not care to discuss the cablegram. He stated that his correspondence to this subject of the treaty had been favorable and there was nothing he could say now. It is evident, however, that no fears are entertained about the Brazilian treaty. President Fonseca did not cable the Minister to close the negotiations until it was known that the treaty could be carried out, and it goes into effect April 1st.

By Associated Press.]

CAICAGO, Feb. 18.—Director Hughes of the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago Railroad Company, made a statement to the Associated Press in regard to the suits for a receiver, for that road begun by W. O. Alley of New York. He declares the general charges of the bill are false and that the specific charges amount to nothing. He says the animus of the bill lies in the fact that the present management refused to pay the claim of Alley for commissions for the sale of bonds of the corporation some years ago, on the ground that there was no agreement with him touching the matter.

Coinage Committee.
By Associated Press.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Francis G. Newlands to-day resumed his statements before the House Committee on Coinage in advocacy of the free coinage of silver. Newlands and Representative Walker combatted each other on the assertion that the former prices of products always rose and fell with the advance and decline of the price of silver.

Bartine and others wanted to know how long the examination would be kept up, and another wrangle ensued.

Williams of Illinois moved that the hearing close with to-day's session.

Tracy of New York moved as a substitute that the hearing cease at 12 o'clock Friday, and he adopted the suggestions of other members that a vote should be taken at 1 o'clock Friday on reporting the bill.

Williams said he would vote for the proposition of Tracy under protest because he could not help himself.

Bland made a similar statement, so by unanimous consent it was agreed that the hearings cease on Friday noon and that a vote on the bill should be taken at 1 o'clock on that day.

Fire and Loss of Life.
By Associated Press.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—A woman and four children were suffocated, and a man probably fatally burned in a fire that occurred in a three-story frame structure. The basement and ground floor were used as a bakery and two families were living on the floors above. A pot of fat boiling over in the basement set fire to the surrounding wood work. In a few minutes the building was on fire and a dense smoke poured through the halls. The firemen managed to subdue the flames after the bakery and second floor were gutted, and as soon as possible, search was made of the building. On the top floor there were found, Mrs. John Henry and her four children dead. Jacob Enright, who was in the basement, was so badly burned that he will probably die.

THE following tribute to the memory of the late General Sherman and Admiral Porter is from the pen of Judge Goodwin of the Salt Lake Tribune:

When the guns of Porter's fleet began to boom in front of Vicksburg, the guns of Sherman began to answer back from the shore. Thunder replied to thunder until the defenders of the beleaguered city could bear the torture no longer and capitulated. That was eight and twenty years ago. Both the Admiral and the General were then in their prime. The heart of one responded to the pulse-throbs of the river and the sea; the other with an unconscious power moved a sovereign among his fellowmen on the shore. Both fell asleep last week; the Admiral a little in advance of the General. Did the latter again hear the call of the former, not through the cannon's mouth, but through the still small voice which may penetrate the ears of the dying, but cannot be heard by those in health? Did the stormy soul of Porter wait for the stormy soul of Sherman to join it before it started for the final bivouc? Their guns sounded together, almost together they went down the final decline, and the boat that carried across the soul of the Admiral, on its return took on the soul of the General.

THERE are very many rumors and many denials of the railroad combines, but the tendency is as Mr. C. P. Huntington outlined two years ago, to consolidate all the railroad lines west of the Mississippi river into one gigantic combination. There will be but one freight agent in any town; there will be no soliciting patronage, no rivalry; the officials will be indifferent as to which road people desire to have freight carried over, for from the whole proceeds the whole expenses will be deducted and the profits will be reckoned by the miles of road in the combination. The tendency will be to higher rates and less accommodations; there will be no struggle to have the best cars and to make the best time; the whole gigantic business will take on all the attributes of a machine and will be run that way, and all that the people can hope for will be that the fear of the confiscation by the Government of the entire system will cause the managers to do the public something akin to justice.

THE Chronicle contains the following: Some of the members of the Legislature have threatened to boycott Washoe county on account of the independent manner in which the GAZETTE has commented upon their actions. This is characteristic of such infinitessimal-souled bipedal abortions as are now misrepresenting the people and serving their bosses at the State Capital. They haven't the brains or the manliness of the urchin who made up faces at the sister of the boy who walloped him for stealing his apple. Let the GAZETTE pursue the even tenor of its way. The enmity of such cattle speaks as loudly in its praise as the commendation of the respectable element, whose interests it so bravely and ably defends.

OUR brother across the way is very touchy. He says we "attribute the language of the Carson Appeal to the Journal, and comment accordingly." We had not read the Appeal and did not know that you had nipped the opinion expressed, as no credit was given, but if such was the case we humbly beg your pardon. The GAZETTE never accused the Journal of skulking behind a nom de plume when expressing an opinion, but it did think it was sneaking up to the back door on the Constitutional Convention question. Its explanation is entirely satisfactory to us, however, if it is to our esteemed contemporary.

THE unemployed of Sacramento have petitioned the Hon. Mayor and Board of City Trustees to indorse the action of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors in recommending the passage of the "Special Urgent Necessity Fund" bill now pending in the Legislature. The bill provides for an apportionment out of the State Treasury of a sum at the ratio of $1,000 for each 5,000 inhabitants of each duly incorporated city, this sum to be expended on public works.

COD FISHING FOR SPORT.

A Ten or Fifteen-Pounder Makes a Good Fight Before He Is Landed.

Of course, the idea strikes one as rather tame, but when followed under the right conditions you will find excitement lurking around on all sides, as well as underneath. Shoal water fish, when taken with a hook and line, act much livelier than when they are in deep water, so that a ten or fifteen-pounder makes considerable fight before he is landed, says Forest and Stream.

In the outfit, any kind of boat not likely to drown you will do, linen tautog lines, with rather small sized bass hooks, two on each line, with respectively twenty-four and thirty-inch snoods, sinker weighing three or four ounces. In bait, fresh menhaden, herring, small fish, lobster or clams. Start in the evening, soon after daylight has gone and as soon as the moon is well up. Go from one-third to two-thirds as far from the shore as you would fish in the daytime. Keep the hooks about three feet from the bottom in from five to ten fathoms of water. There is a weird excitement in this kind of fishing found in no other. You hear the distant cry of the bittern and night heron, notice the phosphorescent trail made by some stray shark or big fish as he plunges by, watch the long ground swell, until it seems as if it were really alive, and, with the swash of the sea on shore, you by this time have a mighty sharp bite from a cod, and he does not all resemble a log as you pull, but tries his best to get away until landed.

During the fishing a spine dogfish or so investigates; then comes a peculiar kind of bite, and, as you look over, there is something alongside that reminds you of the mouth of an old-fashioned carpet bag with nails on end stuck around the edge; this is a goose or bellows fish, whose use, as yet, has not been found out. Now you think you have got fast to the bottom, but soon find it is a skate about four feet across, which comes up slowly in circles, having by prowling around got a hook in one of his numerous outer edges. Then, by fishing about half-way to the bottom, you can catch quantities of frost fish or whiting. Codfish are more numerous inshore, and bite better during the night than in the daytime. If, after you are through fishing, you still wish for more excitement, just catch a sea wrong, or, rather, let it catch you right, as you land on the beach, and you will get enough in the next few seconds to last well into the morning.

PRETTY CHEEKS.

They Are Not Always Easy to Get, but Nature Can Be Helped.

Pretty cheeks are a rare finishing touch, an otherwise handsome face being often spoiled by high cheek bones and thin or flabby cheeks, says the Metropolitan. The high cheek bones can scarcely be softened unless the cheeks are made firm and plump. Contrivances worn in the mouth for filling out the cheeks have been resorted to, but scarcely without great discomfort; and the only reasonable way of accomplishing the desired result is to take on more flesh and to study carefully the dressing of the hair.

In some instances, however, there will be a superfluity of flesh where it is not wanted, while the cheeks persist in remaining thin. A firm, round cheek, with a slight dimple showing with every smile, is a most attractive charm, and the sister of a young gentleman who had a pencil accidently thrust through one cheek in boyhood, leaving an indentation that was a quite natural looking dimple, was wont to remark that she really wished it had happened to her, as she would have thrust a pencil through the other cheek and felt abundantly repaid by her increase of beauty.

But her enthusiasm did not reach the point of decorating both cheeks herself. Bathing the cheeks two or three times a day with weak ammonia water in which a small piece of alum has been dissolved tends to make the flesh firm and smooth. The common practice of pressing one cheek into the pillow while sleeping is very injurious to beauty of outline, and it also produces wrinkles.

EFFECT OF THE VOICE.

It Can Impress or Inspire to Cheerfulness by Its Tones Alone.

Probably no one can fully estimate how much influence he is constantly exerting through his tones of voice. Nothing is so powerful to cheer the drooping energies of a discouraged group as the inspiring tones of hope in the words of a new arrival. Who has not seen the immediate effect of a glad and sprightly voice breaking in upon a dull and uninterested party of people? How their eyes brighten, and their brows clear, and their forms become erect, says the New York Ledger. On the other hand, let a solemn, or doleful, or fretful voice break in on a gay and cheerful company, and how quickly the smile dies on the lip, and the depressing influence goes round. The infant who can not understand a word that his mother says is soothed and pleased, or grieved and frightened by her tones, and the seeds thus sown of love and gentleness, or of harshness and impatience, are sure to bear fruit in his later development, and exert a strong influence in mellowing his future character, and preparing it to contend the better with the roughness of the world.

Handel and His Publisher.

Welsh, the musical publisher of Renaldo, made £1,500 by publishing the airs of the opera, and Handel, who possessed a considerable vein of dry humor, remarked on this: "My dear sir, as it is only right that we should be on an equal footing, you shall compose the next opera, and I will sell it."

MR. NEWLAND'S VIEWS.

Free Coinage All Right—A Just Cause Always Wins.

How It Will Affect the Next Presidential Election.

Hon. Francis G. Newlands was interviewed by a Washington Post reporter, and gives his views on free coinage as follows:

"How about free coinage?" asked a Post reporter of Francis G. Newlands at the the Arlington yesterday.

"Free coinage is all right," he replied, if parliamentary obstruction does not prevent its consideration by the House it will carry. If vetoed by the President it will probably have enough votes in the next Congress to pass it over the veto. If enough cannot then be obtained a free coinage President, elected in 1892, upon a free coinage platform, will sign a free coinage bill.

No, I am not troubled as to free coinage. A just cause will always win. But I am troubled about the prospective destruction of the Republican party. It seems intent on committing felo de se.

How do I make that out. Well look at the political situation. The only States carried by the Republicans in 1890, outside of two or three New England States, and Ohio and Iowa, which almost went Democratic, were the Pacific coast and, including in the latter term all the new Western States. These States almost uniformly remained true to their Republican leaders, who were pronounced and aggressive silver men. The contest was a hard one, but the Republicans won, partly because the record of the Democratic party on the silver question was not regarded as sincere in the face of Cleveland's success in smothering all action during his administration, but mainly because of their personal devotion to their Republican leaders.

But the Democratic party is now thoroughly demonstrating its sincerity upon the silver question, and the Republican party is aggressively demonstrating its hostility to the movement. In the House of Representatives it is using the very powers it exercised to prevent obstruction to the tariff and election bills, to secure and make effective obstruction to the silver bill. After seventeen years of constant, progressive, and accumulative agitation on this subject, the representative body of the people is to be denied, by the tyranny of committee and rule management, the opportunity to even consider the subject until at least such time as a pocket veto can be made effective.

What effect will such action have upon these mountain and Pacific coast States? If such Republican strongholds as Nebraska, Kansas, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan, and other States are lost to the Republican party, by reason mainly of its monetary policy, will the long stand loyal to a party which is declaring its hostility to their chief interest?

The electoral college, under the new apportionment, will consist of 444 votes, 223 constituting a majority. The two Dakotas, Wyoming, Colorado Montana, Idaho, Nevada, Washington, Oregon and California will have forty votes. Now suppose all these votes go to the Democracy, and are added to the Democratic votes of the Southern States including Delaware and Missouri, 159 in all, the Democratic ticket will, in that event, have a total of 19 votes. Will it not be easy for it to get the twenty-four votes necessary to complete victory, from the States of Nebraska, Kansas, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan, without taking into consideration the numerous other States further to the east, which went Democratic at the last election. Will not the Republican party have enough to do to carry the tariff without loading itself down with hostility to free coinage? Can it expect to carry a single one of the wheat producing States on this issue; and if it fails will not our entire tariff system go to the wall also?

Now, I believe thoroughly in the McKinley bill. I believe in

BUILDING A TARIFF

Wall so high around this country as to encourage within its protection the establishment of industries which will prove remunerative to American labor. I believe in a policy that will encourage the intelligent, earing, drinking, money-spending, product-consuming operatives of Europe to come here and manufacture their products, rather than to send us their inert, unthinking, unenterprising products.

This issue did not have a fair show at the last election. The farmers themselves are divided on it; but they are not divided on the money question, and that carried the wheat-producing States against the Republicans.

We will have a hard fight on the tariff. There will be but little opportunity to show practically the benefit of the McKinley bill before the next election, for the reason that the uncertainty as to its fate before the people two years hence, will prevent the inauguration of the new industrial enterprises it was intended to promote, and we will go into the campaign with all the disadvantages of high duties without the compensating advantages brought about by the energizing effects of new industries.

Where will the Republican party get its votes outside of the

and the money and banking centers, in which sentiment is divided on the money question? Can the New England States with New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and perhaps Ohio and Iowa, enable it to carry the election? Is it aware that free coinage would probably carry New York? Does it suppose that the boards of trade and chambers of commerce, or the metropolitan press in the banking and money lending centers, voice the views of the people, or anything but the views of the creditor and money-lending classes? I use the term in no offensive sense, for in a measure I belong to this class, through the large interest which, as a trustee, I hold in the largest banking institution on the Pacific coast, and of which I am a Director, an interest worth four times as much as the interests I control in the mines; and yet I say, as a result of mature reflection, that for years after the close of the war the legislation of the country was in favor of the creditor class and against the debtor and producing classes, and was intended to increase the value of bonds and all credits and to increase the burden of all debts.

The creditor class has had its hands on the

THROAT OF LEGISLATION

In this country, just as it has had in Europe for the past twenty years, and every progressive step in financial legislation has met with its vigorous protest and opposition, and with direful threats of disaster, which have never been realized.

Words cannot describe the misery and disturbance which have been prevented by the progressive silver legislation of the past twelve years, which has been the basis of the only increase in the currency of our country. Imagine the continuance of the conditions which prevailed from 1873 to 1878, when the Bland bill was passed.

And what scheme of expansion is the Republican party invited to enlist in? Is it the issue of paper money, or of credit money, or of fiat money? Is the printing press to be devoted to grinding out more money? All that is asked is that the conditions which existed for ages before 1873 should be restored; that this country increasing in population and business, should have the right to resort, from the gradual and proportionate increase of its

to the mines of silver, as well as of gold; that it should absorb what it can of the current product of both.

It is admitted, even by our opponents, that we need for our natural increase of population an addition annually of about $50,000,000 in our money volume. We will need $30,000,000 more annually for six years to take the place of the national bank notes that are being retired. So $80,000,000 of silver will be annually required by the United States alone out of the world's annual product of about $140,000,000 of silver. Can we get that much? I doubt it. The arts absorb a great deal. The constant want of other silver-using countries must be supplied. I do not believe that we will be able to get silver at the rate of $80,000,000 annually for any length of time. The gold blanket, as Bismarck termed it, has been tried long enough to enable us to discover that it cannot cover with its protecting warmth all the stations of the earth. One nation tugs at it, and then the shivering members of another nation are exposed. All try to get into the middle of the monetary bed in order to secure warmth, and the general scramble results in nothing but restlessness and disturbance for all.

Our country now has the opportunity, by placing itself

ON A BIMETALLIC BASIS,

And granting free coinage to silver as well as gold, to gradually unify its currency, substituting from time to time, as opportunity offers, one unvarying form of note, corresponding to the Treasury note of 1890, redeemable in coin, for the four other different kinds of notes now extant, namely: the greenbacks, the gold certificates, the silver certificates and the national bank notes, and ultimately backing each note, dollar for dollar, by reserves of gold and silver in nearly equal quantities in the vaults of the Treasury.

Then when the time comes that the mines fail, as they certainly will, we can authorize a further issue of Treasury notes upon such reserve, always keeping the latter at not less than 75 per cent of the note issue. When this is done no country in the world world will have a better or safer currency. The greenbacks,

GOLD AND SILVER

Certificates, and national bank notes can be retired as they come into the Treasury by subsidiary Treasury notes for them. The further issue of gold certificates can be discontinued, and gradually a large part of the gold represented by the gold certificates can be added, in addition to the current products from our mines, to the reserve of $100,000,000 in gold now on hand. The national banks should be preserved as banks of deposit, not of note issue, and some law might be framed similar to that of Germany providing for the issue of emergency money, corresponding somewhat to the New York clearing house certificates lately issued at times when money might be scarce, and credit fails to perform its full functions, a charge being made for its use, which would force automatically its retirement when the emergency had passed.

It should be recollected that such money permanently issued would, when

CREDIT WAS RESTORED,

Furnish the basis of a further credit and expansion, and hence its retirement should be forced by the charges imposed upon it. If the Republicans would shape such a bill and pass it they would settle the money question.

"But how about the European silver that the bankers say would flood us," Mr. Newlands was asked.

"There is nothing in that fear. European countries have little enough silver, and all is in use. France has two-thirds of it, $700,000,000 in all, standing side by side with $700,000,000 of gold and of equal purchasing power. France has witnessed the triumph of her financial system. She will not abandon it. In the other countries the collection and retirement of the remaining $400,000,000 of European silver would create great disturbance.

But if childish fears are to control legislation it will be easy to confine the coinage to the current annual product of the world, and by a mint charge, or seignorage, in the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury, exclude the foreign silver which some suppose will be put into the melting pot and precipitated upon us. There would never be any occasion for him to exercise the discretion, I firmly believe.

In reply to an inquiry as to what course the silver men in Congress proposed to take, and the probabilities of an extra session, Mr. Newlands said: "I don't know what their course will be. If obstrusive methods are employed to prevent a full and fair consideration of the subject in the House, I think they will be justified in pursuing such course as may be necessary to force an extra session.

The next House will contain 236 Democrats, 87 Republicans and 8 Farmers' Alliance Representatives. They are fresh from the people, and I think they know their views so well that they will record them in immediate legislation on this subject."

PROPERTY TRANSFER.

F. Lemmon and W. F. Lemmon Dividing their Accumulations.

F. Lemmon, of Peavine, has sold his interest in the Long Valley ranch of F. Lemmon and Son, to W. F. Lemmon. The ranch contains 440 acres and is what is known as the Bates place, containing 160 acres, the Ross place containing 160 acres and the Pine place containing 120 acres. The father and son have been in business together for many years, and now they propose to divide up their accumulations which have been by no means small. Mr. Lemmon Sr., will make his home the most of the time on his Spanish Spring Valley ranch. The old veteran is good for a number of years of hard work yet, but he enjoys sitting on the shady side of his house on a hot summer day better than on the hurricane deck of a mustang, riding after stock.

GRISMER-DAVIES.

A Reno Audience Well Entertained by This Well Known Company.

The Grismer-Davies Company gave an excellent performance last night to a well filled house. The play "Beacon Lights" is a drama of more than the usual merit, has many strong situations and fun enough to keep up a lively interest on the part of the audience, which last night followed it with keen attention and testified their appreciation in frequent and hearty applause. Joseph Grismer and his charming wife, Phœbe Davies, are popular favorites with a Reno audience. The GAZETTE may be pardoned for offering a mild protest against the great advertising tobacco wrappers used for programs, and which were smutched with ink so thick as to spoil gloves or blacken the devil's fingers.

THE CASE OF OLLIVER.

Constable Upson Gone to Battle Mountain for the Culprit.

Constable Upson left here on Monday evening for Battle Mountain to return the alleged forger, D. K. Olliver, held by the officers there on a dispatch from the Constable at Reno. Olliver represented himself as being an Insurance agent and tried to cash the same check at the Nevada Bank, but Cashier Osburn declined unless he obtained an indorser. Failing in this, he tried to borrow the amount upon the check from one of Reno's doctors, that he had engaged to examine his applicants for insurances. The doctor declined, and then he went to the First National Bank and got the money upon it.

Live Stock Movements.

Seven carloads of cattle were reshipped this morning to Brandenstein & Co., and ten carloads were sent to Horn & Chapman. The above were the lot of cattle resting here yesterday.

Attached to the overland train this morning were three Arms palace horse cars, carrying thirty head of weanlings. The colts were from Corbett's San Mateo ranch and were consigned to Kellogg & Co. of New York.

Dr. Liebig Coming.

Dr. Liebig, the well-known specialist, will be at the Palace Hotel on Monday, February 23rd and will attend to the afflicted. The Doctor has made annual visits to this town for years, and has many friends. He graduated over fifty years ago and has kept up with the times. Any one suffering with any kind of a disease will do well to call on him.

ASHLEY AND JOURNALISM.

The Last Admonition of a Brilliant Man.

Delos R. Ashley was the second Congressman elected in Nevada, and it is generally conceded that he served his country well during the troublous times of reconstruction. He was certainly conceded to be at that time a lawyer of sound attainments and honorable and conscientious in the discharge of every duty that he undertook. He served but one term in Congress, during 1867-8, and returned to Austin to re-enter his legal practice. In time he went to White Pine and finally to Pioche. There in 1872 he was overtaken with the malady that had threatened him for a long time, and which frequently ends the career of brilliant men—softening of the brain. As none of his kin were with him, the members of the Pioche bar, with Harry I. Thornton taking an active part, cared for him as tenderly as for a brother, and to secure the quiet needed and not obtainable in Pioche during those busy times, they sent him down to the little Mormon town of Panaca, where, at a home-like hotel there, they provided him with every comfort procurable. His brain was wandering and only occasionally did he seem conscious of his surroundings, but he never relapsed from the genteel and dignified deportment that had been the characteristic trait of his life. He would accept nothing at the hotel unless he paid for it, and while his friends sent a supply of choice imported cigars and fine liquors, they also provided him with money to pay for all he consumed. He passed the day in striding to and fro across the office, with his head inclined in deep thought, and rarely looking at any one. His friends sent for his wife, who he had not seen for many years. She come with their youngest daughter, then about sixteen years old, accompanied by a son-in-law, who had married an older daughter. He was then, and is yet, a prominent writer for the press, and noted for his ability, as he was also for his failure as a financier. The relatives were taken to Panaca, and ushered into Ashley's presence by Colonel Thornton. Ashley took no notice of the callers and kept pacing the floor, until Thornton accosted him and said, "Mr. Ashley, your wife." Ashley bowed with dignity, said simply "Madam" and resumed his walk. When he recrossed the floor, Thornton presented his daughter, saying, "Mr. Ashley, your daughter." Again he bowed with dignified politeness and said only "Miss," and resumed his walk. On his return, Thornton presented his son-in-law. Ashley looked at him earnestly and said, "Sir! May I ask what is your occupation?" Pleased with the sign of reviving faculties, and proud of his profession, the son-in-law answered, "Certainly, I am a journalist." Ashley stood with his cane hanging by the crook over his arm, looking intently at him while answering, and when he ceased, Ashley raised his hand and impressively punctuating his words with his index finger, said "Sir! When I was a young man, I once followed that occupation for about three months; and sir, during that time I never come nearer starving to death in my life." Turning upon his heel, he resumed his walk, lapsed into forgetfulness and took no further notice of any in the party. They took him to California and shortly afterward he died.

A BOY STABBED.

A Young Man Who Should Be Looked After.

About 11 o'clock last night, says the Carson Tribune of yesterday, in front of the Ozark Saloon, George Cahill, a 17-year-old boy, while endeavoring to take a companion of about the same age, Fred Brault, who was intoxicated, home, received a stab back of the right shoulder-blade from a pocket-knife in the hands of young Brault. A wound three inches in depth was made, and an artery cut which caused Cahill to bleed both internally and externally. After much difficulty the flow of blood was stopped. The young man is still weak and not out of danger.

WORK RESUMED.

The Peavine Mines Looking Up and Work Commenced.

Shurdiff and Monroe commenced work to-day on their mine just southeast of the house of F. Lemmon on the Long Valley road. There has been nothing done on the claim for two or three years. They have a tunnel in 600 or 700 feet which is quite badly out of repair now. They left the work three years ago with good prospects ahead and will put the tunnel in first-class repair and go on with developing the mine. They have timber sufficient on the ground for prosecuting the work, and we can expect good news from Peavine before the summer is over.

Churchill Items.

From W. S. Bailey of Churchill county, the GAZETTE learns that farming interests in that section still receive the usual attention and the outlook is good for the present year. Hay is plentiful and sells for $2 50 a ton, the demand not being as heavy as last winter and stock doing well on the ranges. There are about 1,000 head of beef cattle for sale, that are principally held by Lem Allen, J. W. Ferguson, Chas. R. Bailey and J. H. Kent. These will all be sold during this winter. W. S. Bailey disposes of all his beef through his own markets.

WADSWORTH, Nev., Feb. 14, 1891.

At a regular meeting of Division No. 158 of the B. of L. E. held at their hall on February 14, 1891, a committee of five members was appointed to draft resolutions touching the departure of Superintendent Whited.

BREVITIES.

Local and General Intelligence.

The Orr Ditch Co. advertise their delinquents in to-day's GAZETTE.

Members of the U. R. K. of P. will find something of interest to them in the 50-cent column.

The way to make money is to save it. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most economical medicine to buy, as it is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "100 doses one dollar." Do not take any other preparation if you have decided to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The Swedish Songstresses.

The Pioneer Press of St. Paul contains the following about the Swedish songstresses to appear at McKissick's Opera House to-morrow night: At the Newmarket, St. Paul, last evening, seating capacity was tested by the immense audience assembled to listen to and be delighted by the singing of the octette of Swedish lady singers. Fresh and true as birds do these descendants of the bards of Norseland sing, and two or more of the eight have voices, which in range and compass, are little short of phenomenal.

As this is the last company that will visit Reno until the 30th of March, the Swedish people should have a rousing house. Seats now on sale at Hodgkinson's drug store.

The Parent of Insomnia.

The parent of Insomnia or wakefulness is in nine cases out of ten a dyspeptic stomach good digestion gives sound sleep. indigestion interfers with it. The brain and stomach sympathizes. One of the prominent symptoms of a weak state of the gastric organs is a disturbance of the nerve entrepot, the brain. Invigorate the stomach, and you restore equilibrium to the great centre. A most reliable medicine for the purpose is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is far preferable to mineral sedatives and powerful narcotics which, though for a time they may exert a soporific influence upon the brain, soon cease to act, and invariably injure the tone of the stomach. The Bitters, on the contrary, restore activity to the operations of that all important organ, and their beneficient influence is reflected in sound sleep and tranquil state of the nervous system. A wholesome impetus is likewise given the action of the liver and bowels by its use.

Northern Pacific Earnings.

A road whose record for 1890 will be examined with interest is the Northern Pacific, whose earnings have been obtained from official sources. The gross earnings for the full year were $24,402,751, against $21,741,891 in 1889, $18,060,103 in 1888, and $13,854,103 in 1887. The net earnings were $10,165,269, against $9,361.750 in 1889, $7,046,171 in 1888 and $6,046,172 in 1887. For the last six months of 1890 the net earnings of the Northern Pacific, including the Wisconsin Central, were $7,634,584, an increase of $1,759,754 over 1889. The surplus, after paying all fixed charges, was $1,750,543, against $1,850,086 in 1889, a decrease of $199,545.

San Francisco Meat Market.

The supply of beef is well up to the average, keeping prices in easy position. Veal is fairly well represented. Quotations for mutton remain steady, it not being in excess of trade wants. The following are the rates for whole carcasses from slaughterers to dealers in San Francisco:

BEEF—First quality, 6c; second quality 5@5½c; third quality, 4½@5c ₱ lb.
VEAL—Quotable at 5@6½c for large and 6@8c ₱ lb for small.
MUTTON—Quotable at 8@9c ₱ lb.
LAMB—Spring, 15c.
PORK—Live Hogs, on foot, grain fed, heavy, 4@4¼c; light, 4¼@5c; dressed Hogs, 7½@8c ₱ lb.

Stage Echoes.

The make-up of Scott Cooper as Col. Clay Calhoun in Beacon Lights last night, reminded the old residents of General Kittrell "of Alabama, sir," now of Modesto, formerly of various other places, and, as Kit bimself said, "during the wah, also of British Columbia."

Miss Sara Stevens of the Grismer-Davies company, was the wife of John C. Heenan, the Benicia Boy, now deceased.

An Unkind Remark.

The Homer Index relieves itself of the following remark about one of our most worthy citizens: "The Nevada people are in a quandary as to how they shall dispose of Frank Bell, who must have a job of some kind' Why not tie him to the neck of Sam Davis' bull, or set him to work counting that constitutional vote?

A Fast One.

Hon. C. H. Leeper has recently bought of Keating and Lee, a fine young stallion that promises to develop into a flyer. He is of Prompter stock and a full brother to Ajax, who has made a record of 2:26. Mr. Leeper will stand his little trotter the coming season.

1,500 MILES.

But She Got It.—A Sample of Letters Daily Received.

Only those who have tried it can know what it is that prompts one to send 1,500 miles for it to get it again. Here is another of many such instances:—

DEAR SIRS: I send $5, for which please return a half dozen of your vegetable sarsaparilla. I have moved here from Sierra City, Cal. I took three bottles before leaving, hence I send all the way back to California for more. It was just before I left Sierra City, about a year ago, that I began to feel very miserable. My skin was very yellow, and I was all pains and aches, especially under my shoulders and in my head. The doctor said it was my liver, and gave me some medicine which relieved me somewhat. One of my neighbors happened in and told me she had started to take Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla, and advised me to try it. I did, and with such good effect that I now feel like a new being. I have persuaded one of my neighbors here to take it, so part of this is for her and part for myself.

MRS. GEO. DELBRIDGE,
Butte City, Montana.

The reader, who has not tried it, has no idea what the vegetable juices in this remedy will do for disordered systems.

"Struck the Golden Mean" as a Blood Purifier.

The Detroit Free Press says: "Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup, prepared by the Charles Wright Medicine Company, of this city, has struck the Golden Mean in the treatment of all blood diseases, and its success is an evidence that an honest, pure and valuable medicine, is not incapable of attracting the attention of every family. There seems to be but one opinion as to its merit as a family medicine.

This is the real secret of the success of this wonderful remedy. Its perfect and speedy action, in removing all impure and poisonous matter from blood. No home should be without it, as a thorough and effectual blood purifier for young and old, For sale by all druggists.

Proof of Merit.

The proofs of the merits of a plaster is the cures it effects, and the voluntary testimonials of those who have used Allcock's Porous Plasters for the past thirty years is unimpeachable evidence of their superiority and should convince the most skeptical. Self-praise is no recommendation, but certificates from those who have used them are.

Beware of imitations and do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for Alcock's, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

Alcock's Corn and Bunion Shields effect quick and certain relief.

"LITTLE BO PEEP

had lost her sheep and couldn't tell where to find them." So the old nursery rhyme says, and it goes on to bid her "Leave them alone and they'll come home and bring their tails behind them." All this may be true of lost sheep, but if you have lost your health you cannot afford to leave that alone. It will not come back of its own accord. Some people brag that they never bother about colds. They "let them go the way they came." Alas! too often the victims go—to a consumptive's grave. Until very recently a cure for Consumption, which is universally acknowledged to be scrofula affecting the lungs, would have been looked upon as miraculous, but now people are beginning to realize that the disease is not incurable. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure it if taken in time and given a fair trial. This world-renowned remedy will not make new lungs, but it will restore diseased ones to a healthy state when other means have failed. It is the most potent tonic, or strength restorer, alterative, or blood-cleanser, and nutritive, or flesh builder known to medical science. For Lingering Coughs, Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, "Liver Complaint" and Dyspepsia or Indigestion, it is an unequaled remedy.

AH SIN'S ENGLISH.

Some Facts as to the Chinese-American Dialect.

It is well known that the Chinese can not master the sound of the letter "r," but this has proved the rock on which many professed writers of the Chinese dialect have come to grief. They do not recognize the fact, says the San Francisco Chronicle, that while John Chinaman can not make the "r" sound, he is fertile in expedients to avoid it. Two illustrations will show how easy it is to blunder on this point. In an early edition of one of Bret Harte's stories—altered, we believe, in later editions—he makes a Chinese servant call himself "Ah Ri," which is a manifest impossibility. His name would certainly have been "Ah Li," for the initial "r" would not only not come trippingly from his tongue, but not at all. But in the same or another story he makes a Chinaman call his employer "Mr. Fostel," his name being Foster. Now, no "Chinese person," to quote the restriction act, would ever say "Fostel." He would soften the last syllable of the name and call it "Fostah," just as the name "Porter" in his mouth would be "Potah," very like the negro pronunciation of the same word.

The author of "A Summer in a Canyon" has given a very good example of the difficulties of the Chinese with the letter "r." She makes one of her heroines, a mischievous girl, select a reading lesson for the Chinese cook, who wants to learn English. The lesson is made up of such sentences as "The grass is green," "The rose is red" and the like. Of course they became in Hop Sing's mouth "The glass is gleen," "The lose is led" and so on. The whole scene is an excellent study in broken China and is commended to the ambitious Eastern writers who want to try their hands at English as she is spoken by the Chinese in California.

The letter "j" is another which presents difficulties to John, which, however, he usually resolves by making it into "ch." It may be slightly exaggerated to say that Chinese scholars in Sunday-school know the author and founder of the Christian faith as "Chee Cly," but it is not very far out of the way. An American in this city, an interpreter of the Chinese language, whose given name is "Jerome," is usually known among the Chinese as "Chee Loam," they, perhaps, imagining that that is all the name that belongs to him.

It should be noted, too, that the Chinese in California do not use the lingua franca called "pigeon English," which is employed in China. Such an expression as "My b'ong topside," meaning: "I live higher up," is never heard here. The Chinese in this State try to talk English, and some of them succeed fairly well, although the "r" and "j" are too much for them.

This is not an attempt at an exhaustive study of Chinese English, but rather a note of warning to ambitious dialect writers who have learned the dialect from books. If they will but bear in mind that "r" does not become "l" unless it carries the genuine "r" sound, and that such a word, for example, as "Berkley," is not "Belkley" in the Chinese tongue, but something more nearly resembling "Bahkley," they will be saved from blunders which make their sketches and stories rather ludicrous than humorous to those who are accustomed to the dialect.

TALLEYRAND'S AUDACITY.

A Contemporary's Anecdote of the Famous Diplomat.

M. de Beugnot, a contemporary of Talleyrand's and superintendent of police at the time of the Prussian occupation of Paris, relates the following anecdote of Talleyrand, an incident in which he, himself, played no inconspicuous part:

"M. de Talleyrand," says M. de Beugnot, "on hearing that the Prussian army intended to blow up the bridge of Jena, and knowing that on these occasions no time was to be lost, ordered me to find Marshal Blucher, wherever he might be, and to use the strongest language in my vocabulary on the part of the King and his government in order to induce the marshal to give such peremptory orders as would prevent the threatened outrage.

"'Shall I say,' said I, 'that the King will have himself carried to the bridge and be blown up with it?'

"'Not precisely; people will not believe us quite so heroic; but say something strong—very strong.'

"Off I went to discover the marshal, who was easily to be found, in a certain gambling house in the Palais Royal. Though by no means delighted at being disturbed in his only amusement, the marshal, on being assured that the name of the bridge was to be altered, gave the necessary orders for stopping its destruction.

"When I returned, and gave an account of my mission, M. de Talleyrand said, good-humoredly:

"'Well, now I think that we may profit by your idea of this morning. You remember the King threatened to be carried to the bridge, and was prepared to be blown up with it. It will make a good newspaper article.'

"I profited by the hint. The anecdote appeared in all the papers, and the King received the compliments made to him upon it with his accustomed affability and assurance."

Marriage in the Orange Free State.

According to the Natal Mercury there is a traffic in bridal parties to and fro across the romantic Orange river, and many boatmen reap riches. A man in the colony on one side of the Orange may not marry his deceased wife's sister. He may in the Orange Free State. In the Free State a man may not marry his cousin. He may in the colony. Hence, in the former case, all the men have to do is to cross the Orange river, where they can get married. In the latter case the cousins just cross the Orange river into the colony, where they can make themselves happy or miserable for life.

Cow Trees.

The cow tree, the sap of which closely resembles milk, is a native of South and Central America. It is a species of evergreen and grows only in mountainous regions. A hole bored in the wood, or even a wound made in the bark of this remarkable tree, is almost immediately filled with a lacteal-like fluid. Alexander von Humboldt was the first traveler to describe this tree and bring it to the notice of Europeans.

OUR COLUMN.

These Are the Books

We Are Giving Away.

This book contains 480 pages; is eight and one-half inches long, six inches wide and two inches thick. It is printed on extra heavy paper and is handsomely bound, with embossed cover and gilt-lettered back.

It is different from all other works ever published.

First—It teaches those who have it how to tell what the matter is when a person gets sick.

All similar books tell what to do if you know what the disease is. This book tells you HOW TO DETECT THE DISEASE, and then what to do for it.

No other Book Published does this.

Second—When a person is really attacked by a dangerous disease, it enables you to know the fact, and in such cases its advice is: "Send for a competent physician at once." But in all ordinary cases, such as can be easily cured, it gives full directions for treatment.

Third—It is not confined to the practice used by any one class of physicians; but it gives, separately, and for each disease, the methods used by each of the different schools of medicine, and in ALL CASES the PRESCRIPTIONS ARE MADE by the MOST EMINENT MEN in their respective modes of practice This makes the work specially suited to the needs of every family, no matter what medical school they prefer.

No other Book Published Does this

TESTIMONIALS:

I have examined the advance sheets of "Our Family Physician" It gives me pleasure to recommend the work as correct in its mode of treatment of disease, and it deserves wide circulation.
J. F. COOK, M. D.,
Professor in Burnett's Medical College, Chicago.

After examining the publication "Our Family Physician" I can fully endorse the opinions expressed of its merits by the above gentlemen. R. A. GUNN, M.D.
Professor of the Burnett Medical College.

The book contains a valuable chapter of symptoms, which will aid wonderfully in diagnosing diseases, and the proper remedies are given for Allopathic, Homeopathic, Eclectic, Hydropathic and Herbal treatments.

We have a number of the books on hand, and we invite inspection.

There are three chapters in the "Family Physician" which are worthy of special mention, namely, those on "Diseases of Women," "Diseases of Infants" and "Care of the sick."

The first of these is a model of its kind. It is chaste in language, contains no disgusting pictures for children to happen on and be overcurious about, and taken altogether is the most practical, sensible and straight-forward treatise upon this delicate subject that has ever been printed.

This chapter alone is worth many times the cost of the book to every mother, even if it had to be purchased at its regular price.

The other chapters referred to are equally well written and valuable. See "Our Plan" on 4th page.

It is customary with newspapers to give premiums to new subscribers only; but the publishers of the WEEKLY GAZETTE mean to revise this old rule; they intend to do as well, at least, by their old subscribers—those who have stood by the paper in years past, and paid their money for it "right straight along." We propose to show our appreciation of these friends in a substantial manner; and as the premium to be offered is expensive, and as our express object in offering it is to increase our list of subscribers, we will ask every old subscriber who may renew his subscription, thus receiving the valuable premium, to constitute himself a missionary, and thus in securing at least ONE new subscriber. Come, and bring us one new name and get a book that will be of incalculable value to you.

☞The new subscriber also gets a book.

If the book is to be sent out of this office, 20 cents must accompany order to pay postage.
